Marco Island Offers Live Remote Video Inspections for Occupied Dwellings

As part of Marco Island's ongoing effort to limit the spread of COVID-19, the Building Services division is launching a program to conduct live remote video building inspections beginning on Monday April 20, 2020. The Remote Inspection Program allows a customer to schedule a time to connect with one of the City's inspectors through either Skype, FaceTime, or Duo for the inspection. The inspectors will remotely view the job site using a webcam controlled by the owner or contractor who will point the camera at pertinent parts of the installation. This limits exposure for our residents, contractors, their employees, and the City inspectors. Currently, the City is only offering this program for inspection of occupied dwellings or structures for the following inspection types: building, plumbing, mechanical, electrical, and fire. This is a temporary service offered in order to prevent exposure to COVID-19. Please click on the following link for further details and instructions:
